Confirmation and First Eucharist this coming week

The Easter Sacraments, the Sacraments of Initiation, are an opportunity for the church to celebrate the new life of the Resurrection. Those baptized at the Easter Vigil received all three Sacraments of Initiation at once. This week, some parishioners baptized as infants (now in 8-9 grades) will celebrate Confirmation on Saturday April 23 at 11:00am, and some in 2nd grade will celebrate First Communion at the 10:30 Mass Sunday April 24. This Mass will, of course, take a bit longer and be a bit more crowded.

We gratefully welcome Bishop William Winter to confer the Sacrament of Confirmation on our young people. We pray for a greater outpouring of the Holy Spirit on them as they spend these last days of preparation in prayer. We also pray for a deeper intimacy with Jesus, and with his body the Church, for the children preparing to receive the Body and Blood of Christ for the first time. All parishioners should join in this prayer and in reflecting on the grace we all receive through these Sacraments.

Mother's Day Tribute

The Butler Pro-Life organization, LIFELINE, will again be sponsoring the Mother's Day Tribute in the Butler Eagle. This project recognizes the dignity of life by honoring mothers and also serves as a fundraiser for Lifeline projects. Members of the Social Concerns Committee will be at all Masses THIS WEEKEND, April 16/17 to collect names in "Honor of" and those in "Memory of." The requested donation for each name is $2.00. Checks should be made to "Mother's Day Tribute."

A Family Perspective

by Bud Ozar
Today's gospel tells us to "call our children by name and lead them." If we expect them to "follow" us, we must be leaders and "walk ahead of them" by our example. There are many voices trying to steal our children. There is no time to be a timid parent.

The Conclave to Elect a Pope

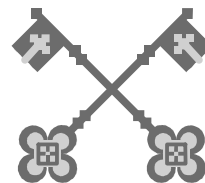

While media coverage tends to take on the coloration of a political convention, Catholics view the conclave to elect a pope as a faith-filled gathering. A conclave is not so much an election as it is the cardinals of the Church collectively opening themselves to the guidance of the Holy Spirit. As such, a conclave is a deeply spiritual event.

The process for electing a pope has remained largely the same since 1059, when Pope Nicholas II restricted papal election to the College of Cardinals. In 1975, Pope Paul VI modified the process by specifying that only cardinals under the age of 80 are eligible to vote and setting the maximum number of cardinal electors at 120.

After morning Mass in St. Peter's Basilica on Monday, April 18, the cardinals will proceed to the Sistine Chapel, where deliberations will begin. Though only members of the College of Cardinals are typically considered, canon law states that any baptized Roman Catholic male may be elected pope, with the provision that he must also be, or become, a priest and a bishop if he is not one already. Two thirds of the ballots are needed to elect a pope on the first 30 votes, but only a simple majority after that. Once a pope is selected, he is asked formally if he accepts election and what name he wants to assume as pope. When he gives consent, the conclave is officially over, and he becomes Bishop of Rome, head of the universal Roman Catholic Church, "Servant of the servants of God."

The Pope as Teacher and Preserver of the Faith

The Church must always proclaim the Word of God. The pope serves as a teacher who articulates the truths of the faith to the world and serves to assure that the "deposit of faith" taught by the Apostles is preserved and presented fully and completely to every generation.

That is why the pope would never publicly offer for belief or publicly propose for practice any teaching or moral action that would violate the deposit of faith. The pope is the conservator of the teachings of Christ, exercising his papal ministry in a way that assures the faithful that the beliefs of the Church are presented whole and inviolate.

The term "infallibility" is applied to the teaching authority of the pope. The pope speaks infallibly – meaning without error – when he speaks ex cathedra (that is, when formally acting in the office of shepherd and teacher of all Christians) and defines core doctrine in matters of faith and morals to be held by the whole Church. This "infallibility" is a precious safeguard for the entire Church, defining how the Holy Spirit guards the faith of the whole Church from error.

The pope, as do the bishops, preaches the Gospel, instructs, guides and leads the faithful in what they are to do in order to attain salvation according to the teachings of Christ. In an unbroken line going back to St. Peter and the Apostles, the papacy continues a pastoral and teaching tradition as old as the Church itself.
